French Cabinet Quits; Door Open for deGaulle

PARIS—AP—The cabinet of Socialist Premier Paul Ramadier resigned today in the midst of what the premier called France's "grave" economic situation.

The premier himself did not resign. The announcement came with startling suddenness three days after Gen. Charles deGaulle's smashing success in France's municipal elections. There seemed little doubt that the cabinet's unanimous decision to step down would facilitate the return to power of the liberation leader—if he wanted to come back at this time.

The cabinet reached its decision only a few hours after Ramadier had summoned the national assembly into an emergency session.

Ramadier was expected to explain the reasons for the resignation at a news conference later in the day.

The premier's office announced that Ramadier himself was firmly intent upon going ahead with the formation of a new government.

It was not certain that he would be successful. Some observers said the cabinet's decision to step down would facilitate the return to power of deGaulle through his new party, the Rally of the French People.

The action came soon after the cabinet had summoned the national assembly back from vacation for an emergency session set for next Tuesday. The assembly was not due to end its session until Nov. 15.

Ramadier's present coalition government has been in office since May 4, when five Communist ministers were expelled from the cabinet.

The expulsion, said to have stemmed from the United States Truman doctrine, left a cabinet of Socialists, Radical Socialists, members of the Popular Republican Movement (MRP) and Independents.

If Ramadier fails to form a new cabinet, French President Vincent Auriol conceivably might call upon deGaulle.

The resignation of the cabinet means that Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, a member of the MRP, at least temporarily is out of office.

Passenger, Freight in Collision

Crash Head-on on Single Track at Gloster Crossing

Twenty-seven persons were injured, some of them critically, when a Soo Line passenger train from Chicago crashed head-on into a freight today at Gloster crossing, about a mile north of St. Paul.

Fifteen of the injured were rushed to Ancker hospital in St. Paul, where, however, they were treated at the scene. One was taken to Northern Pacific hospital in St. Paul.

Both locomotives were overturned and two freight cars also were upset. None of the cars in the passenger train was overturned.

Engineers and firemen of both trains jumped as they saw a crash on the single-track line could not be averted. All were seriously injured. The four taken to Ancker hospital, were:

O. E. Johnson, 3638 Taylor street NE, Minneapolis, passenger engineer, both legs and one arm broken.

Harold Olson, 4129 Jefferson street NE, Minneapolis, passenger fireman, both ankles broken.

George M. Dick, 31, 985 Jessie street, St. Paul, freight fireman, injuries undetermined.

John Ritchie, 61, 210 Lavon street, St. Paul, freight engineer, head injury critical.

Others on the list of injured compiled at the scene were:

H. W. Dunham, Stevens hurt, Wis., flagman on passenger train.

A. J. Berg, 4325 Aldrich avenue S., Minneapolis, Pullman conductor.

F. J. Schmidt, Richfield, Wis., baggageman.

Carl Wilke, 421 Butler street, W. Va., freight mail clerk.

79 on List of Hollywood Communists

WASHINGTON—AP—Chairman Thomas (P. N. J.) said today that the house committee on un-American activities has "a very complete record on at least 79 Hollywood personalities who have engaged in subversive activities."

Thomas made this statement at the committee's third day of hearings in its investigation of communism in the motion picture industry.

He did not name any names but said "documented evidence" will be offered during the hearings on these 79.

Drawn by the prospective appearance of actor Robert Taylor as a witness, operators pressed to get into the big hearing room in the house office building. Women were in the majority.

James A. McGuinness, 53, an executive of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios was today's first witness. He said that five script writers had printed against release of the movie "Confessions of a Communist" because "we had apparently done the Communists a disservice" by representing the "true life" of Thaddeus Stevens.

The movie was based on President Andrew Johnson's life. McGuinness said the writers who protested were Donald Ogden Stewart, Hyde Kraft, Richard Cozzitelli, Jules Dassin and Irving Lasker.

McGuinness said he believes "about 10 to 15" of Hollywood's "real top-flight writers" are Communists.

They are responsible for about the same number of pictures each year, he said.

A husky man with gray hair and a small mustache, he was questioned by H. A. Smith, a special committee investigator and former FBI agent who has been assigned to Hollywood.

McGuinness opened his investigation there last spring.

He told Smith that Communists began appearing in Hollywood during the mid-1930s "with the growth of Hitlerism and Nazism," and "were able to collect the support of many fine people."

After passing through the life of the Berlin-Moscow pact, McGuinness went on, the sympathy for communism "ran to its greatest height" after Russia and the United States became wartime allies.

Dust Storm News Brings Wheat Rally

News of a big dust storm in the winter wheat area brought a late rally in wheat prices on the nation's leading grain exchanges today.

The December wheat future in Minneapolis closed 2 cents higher than Tuesday at $3.00 1/2, while the May delivery shot up to $2.90 1/2, a gain of 4 cents.

In Chicago the December wheat contract made another new 30-year high at $3.11 1/2 in late trading.

The dip stems from a cold air mass moving in from the Rocky Mountain area. Behind that, however, there has been a reaction to much warmer temperatures in the Pacific northwest which make little fall here at this time.

Heads said that far this has been the warmest Indian summer on record.

Clouds may mark the beginning of a cold front tonight, but conditions later may be ideal for viewing a shower of meteors expected to appear in the early morning hours of Thursday.

City Heads for Warmest October in 128 Years

Despite a minor break in abnormally warm temperatures, Minneapolis may be heading for the warmest October in 128 years.

The first three weeks of the month averaged about 63 degrees, 12 above normal, M. R. Horde, the weatherman said, and it is likely that temperatures averaging well above normal may last out the month.

Immediate forecast here, meanwhile, was for partly cloudy skies, windy and considerably cooler to night, Thursday fall and cool, with temperature extremes of 55 to night and 55 Thursday.

Goslin Pat on Resignation Statement

Willard E. Goslin, superintendent of schools, declined today to elaborate on statements contained in letters he sent Monday to board of education members announcing he has his resignation "under serious consideration."

Although board members have little hope of holding Goslin in Minneapolis, even with a salary increase to $15,000 from the $13,500 now paid him, at least one member expressed hope the superintendent would remain until March or until the spring term ends.

Goslin is known to have offered at least two universities and from a college group interested in education on an international scale.

"For some months, Goslin has been dissatisfied because of a lack of unity in the board here. Although he pointed out in his letter that members sometimes voted against his recommendations, he added he believed this to be their privilege."

The board now contains three labor members and four regarded as conservatives. The two women members are included in the latter group. "They have failed often to agree with either of the factions."

The two refused to favor the increase in pay granted teachers last year, but said they "could not see how pay can be raised when there is no money in the city treasury."

For the same reason they have refused to approve payrolls since last January.

Goslin said he hoped to confer with members before the next board meeting, now set for Tuesday.

Plan for War Inadequate, Says Forrestal

WASHINGTON—AP—Secretary of Defense Forrestal said today an industrial mobilization plan for the war was inadequate, as the Roosevelt administration after Pearl Harbor failed to take into account the extent to which "the entire economy must contribute to modern war."

Forrestal told the senate war investigating committee that the plan was "an understandable shortcoming since very few people prior to World War II had fully recognized this fact."

Forrestal's testimony was delayed nearly an hour by an argument between Chairman Brewster (R, Maine), and Senator Pepper (D, Pa.), over the committee's right to consider mobilization issues.

Goslin served notice that the Communists would fight an increased allowance for Elizabeth.

As soon as his purpose was apparent, a chorus of "oh, yes" and "oh, yes" rose from the floor.

Sluggers Fell Doctor; Nurse Routs Them

A University Hospital interne was knocked out by two sluggers who attempted to assault his nurse companion at 4 a.m. today.

The interne, Dr. Ralph T. McCuskey, 25, Durham, N. C., is in the hospital with a fractured skull.

The physician, who registers consciousness, told Minneapolis police and special officers at the university that he and Helen Henningsgaard, 21, Canby, Minn., a nurse at the same hospital, had attended a movie in the loop.

"They had parked a moment in my car on the Minneapolis river flats, before the campus, when the two sluggers appeared, and ordered them out of the machine."

As Dr. McCuskey stepped out, he was felled by a blow. Miss Henningsgaard told officers the weapon was a hammer.

The sluggers took $50 from the physician's wallet as he lay on the ground, then attempted to assault the nurse.

After a brief struggle with her, the sluggers fled, she said. Miss Henningsgaard, unable to revive the physician, ran for aid.

During her absence, Dr. McCuskey regained consciousness, got into his car and drove to the campus.

He was halted by a campus officer, who observed the doctor's blood-covered face. The officer took him to the hospital and summoned police.

Miss Henningsgaard, who lives in Powell hall, nurses residence on the campus, was treated for shock. She is a 1946 graduate of the University of Minnesota school of nursing.

Fires Sweeping Parched Forests

Millions of dollars in tinder-dry forests in New England went up in smoke today in Minnesota and Wisconsin forest rangers were on the alert against a continuing fire hazard. Drought in the midwest and too much rain in Florida and the Pacific Northwest further threatened the nation's food supply. California was the only state to report normal rainfall. Even there farmers reported slight damage to fruit crops by unseasonal rains.

Dry weather produced a serious threat to Minnesota and Wisconsin forests, but no serious fires were reported. At Mettinger, N. D., several hundred acres of prairie were burned over before the fire was brought under control. New England was hard hit by the freak fall weather, with more than 100 raging forest fires sweeping through timberlands and villages in six states with property damage estimated at $25,000,000.

Hardest hit was a five-mile stretch of picturesque Maine coastline, where fires consumed almost 200 buildings before it was brought under control.

Another 100 homes and cottages were destroyed in other parts of Maine.

Most of the structures were summer cottages, but there were scores of homes in families in the Goose Rocks, Cape Porpoise and Wildcat districts of Kennebunkport, Maine.

Kennebunkport village of 2,000 residents was spared only by effective backdrifting and a diminishing wind.

The fire indirectly claimed one life—that of a man directing traffic in the fire zone. Several firemen were injured.

A 15-mile area at Fitchburg, N. H., also threatened by flames sweeping across the state line from Maine, and the sandhills, N. H. section was similarly threatened.

In Wisconsin, all forest protection district lands were closed to hunting and trapping because of the serious fire hazard.

4 Presumed Dead in Navy Plane Crash

ARGENTIA, NEWFOUNDLAND—Four men were missing and presumed dead today in the crash Tuesday night of a United States navy plane into the harbor at this United States base.

The other four aboard were injured and are suffering from shock and other injuries. Previous announcements said seven men had been killed.

The PB4Y plane was on a routine flight from Goose Bay, Labrador, and was attempting to land by instrument in poor weather.

The plane struck, catapulted into the water and sank. Search continued today for the lost men.

over the embankment into sight. "Just before they hit I saw a man jump out of the diesel engine on the freight train. (He was George M. Dick, the fireman). As Dick rolled on the roadbed, a freight car immediately behind the engine split open and dumped its contents of beet pulp over the fireman.

Dick and other residents of the valley camp, first to the scene, managed to free his head and chest but firemen and police dug for half an hour before he was released from under the heavy sacks.

The small diesel engine on the east-bound freight was pulling a train of 11 cars and cabooses. The steam locomotive on the west-bound passenger carried two coaches, one Pullman, one baggage-express car and a mail car.

Exact cause of the crash had not been determined. C. S. Pope, vice president of the Soo Line, said it appeared that the "North" Pacific freight train violated the rules by traveling on the time allotted to the superior train.

There was no immediate comment from Northern Pacific officials. Earlier it had been reported that the Soo Line passenger train was behind schedule.

W. M. Chitel, superintendent of trains for the Soo Line, said the engineer of the freight had been ordered to wait on a siding until the passenger train, which was 30 minutes late, had passed.

The freight apparently disregarded the order, Chitel said.

'Honeymoon Bliss' Delayed Again

Barney Hagen, Billings, Mont., contractor, who paced a suite at The Lexington all day Tuesday awaiting the arrival of the Eng. fish wife he has never seen, was in New York today for the first meeting with the girl he married by proxy 15 months ago.

Their honeymoon already delayed 15 months, Hagen boarded a plane for New York Tuesday night when he learned his wife, the former Elsie Frances Green of London, was detained by immigration authorities at Ellis island.

Hagen would be back in Minneapolis with his bride—either tonight or Thursday, Hagen asked hotel officials to keep his room reservation open for the delayed Minneapolis honeymoon.

The international romance began when Hagen obtained his future wife's name from a service man friend. They corresponded for two years and were married by a "special power of attorney" in Mexico in August, 1946.

Regents Approve Plans for Three New 'U' Buildings

Plans for three new permanent buildings at University of Minnesota were authorized today by the board of regents, even though construction may have to wait several years.

The structures will be built with $2,386,000 appropriated by the last legislature. To keep building costs within that sum, some interior portions may be left unfinished until additional funds are available, it was indicated.

Two of the buildings will face the mall. These are a classroom building and a social science building, each costing $768,000.

The classroom building will be in the area opposite the administration building, just north of the library, while the social science building will occupy the site between Vincent hall and Washington avenue.

The third building, for chemical engineering, will be on the north side of Washington avenue, just south of the main engineering building.

Temporary buildings now stand on the proposed sites. Plans for the classroom structure include a 1,000-seat auditorium.
